The couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Wilde and Miss Clara Gaston, all of Pinckneyville. After the wedding doner they departed for Cincinnati, D. The members of the party are old friends of the minister. Several days ago they made arrangements with him to meet them at the Wies Hotel, and to perform the ceremony. They were anxious to avoid no-poriety, and so took the early morning train out of Pinckneyville, getting off at Believille. There the marriage license was secured, and the party proceeded by electric car to East St. Louis. The Reverend Mr. Harmon was awaiting their arrival.

Lee of Carter offered his substitute immediately after the Dickinson amendment had been defeated. The substitute provides that the Raifroad Commissioners since have power to fix all railroad freight rates, that complaints may be made by shippers, Mayors, Aldermen, trustees and others interested, and that the Commissioners may modify at any time the rates fixed by them.

The Attorney General is enpowered to enforce the inandates of the Commissioners by mandames or otherwise, Raifroad companies are required to furnish schedules, bills of Isding and other records. The Commissioners have the power to administer eaths and examine all officials.

"I understand that this substitute is satisfactory to the author of the original bill," said Lee, "For sixteen years I have been trying to get some measure which would satisfy the raifroads and the prople. The present bill does not help 75 per cent of the shippers, as it only appaies to carload lots. This substitute will put the Commissioners on their honor and give them authority to afferd relief."

He leaves a widow and one daughter, Mrs. Amelia Chinoweth of Chedmatt, O. He was 62 years old and was serving his second term as Postmaster. BRADLEY'S REPORT.

Bradley of St. Francois said that he understood two of the rates fixed by the committee would defeat the measure, and that the bill did not apply to less than carload lots.

"If the substitute can be passed," he said, "then I am in favor of accepting it. If the Commissioners do not do their duty, then we can change the law two years hence." The March meeting of the Jersey County Domestic Science Club was held in the Courthouse at Jerseyville presided.

McNatt said that he was from the backwoods, but that he knew when he was being bunkeed. "I shall not vote for the substitute." he declared.

Dickfirson of Henry took occasion to criticise the Railroad Commissioners. "I want to see a vote on the original bill," he said. "If we do not pass it, then I am in favor of the substitute."

Walker of Boone declared himself in favor of the original measure.

Kinealy made one of the strongest speeches in opposition to the original bill and in favor of the substitute.

"The Supreme Court of the United States has held that Legislatures should not attempt to fix rates, even though they have the power," he said.

Heather opposed delegating authority to any board. "My peope sent me here to accept repeasibility, and I do not propose to shirk it," he said. "Though I have the highest regard for Senator Kinealy, and he is my friend, I do not think we should ask every man who has a $2 or $5 complaint to come to Jefferson City, have his ease postponed two or three times, and suffer other inconveniences simply to get a little relief. "The whole fathic of government is founded on this theory of delegated authority," he said. "No man here can say that these rates are lower than they should be. Let the Commissioners settle this question, and if they do not do it satisfactorily we can wipe the whole office off the statute books."

Martin of Sailne opposed the substitute. Biggs of Audrain recalled the tactics of the opposition two years ago. Biggs of Audrain recalled the tactics of the opposition two years ago.

The pictures of the men and the guns which they carried have attracted widespread attention, and at least a hundred people called at police headquarters to night to inspect them and the burglar's kit.

All the cartridges have been given away as souvenirs, except a dozen, which will be introduced as evidence at the trial. Collins and Rudolph are putting in their time at the jail reading and smoking. They are not allowed knives or forks, and their food is served them on pieces of paper. Both men have been noticed to take a sort of daily calisthenic exercise, presumably to keep in perfect athletic trim. Collins in particular keeps on the move after breakfast, dancing first on one foot and then on the other.

with becoming modesty Miss White, looking very Parisian in a black frock, which these, and though in a measure they are uncouth in their methods, they are nevertheless dangerous and clever thieves, will leave loopholes by which their arrest is caused. When a burglar goes out to do a job he always wears a soft hat. It disquises the face very well. In collins's trunk, used by both men, we found two soft hats. One of these was evidently too large for the head of the wearer, for he had filled out the sweat-hand with a piece of newspaper. This was the St. Louis Chronicle, which demonstrated beyond all doubt that the men were Missourians, and the ones we wanted, even if other things had failed to tell.

"The importance of small clews, too, is told in the arrest of these two men. If Superintendent Charlesworth of the St. Louis office had not found that plece of lims. Hartford. DEEDS OF DARING.

"If they had told me they were after Frenchy Collins I could have found them," said Roundsman James Lally, an undersized, rotund patrolman, who for years did duty in Dutch Point district, where Collins lived. "That boy has given me more trouble than I ever had with any other young roughs in my life," continued Lally, "Sure I knew him. Didn't I chase him up a coal run one night and he dived off the top, seventy-five feet in the air, into the Connecticut River and swam to the East Hartford shore, a good three-quarters of a mile? Another time he gets on the Commerce Street drawbridge and undressed when the draw was open. There was me standing on the shore yelling to him and when the draw swings back he dives into the river again."

"I made those Colt guns Rudolph and Collins carried," said Roundsman James Moran, formerly an expert gunmaker in Colt's armory and an old National League catcher. "I have made many of them in my time, and I guess I have worked on all the big ones that have been turned out in recent times. Captain Stratton, U. S. A., inspector of ordnance at Colt's armory; Superintendent L. C. Grover of the same shop, and others who have examined he weapons claim them to be the nargest hand shooting irons ever built. And so all Hartford is agog over the capture of the two desperadoes.

GENTLEMANLY YOUTHS. GENTLEMANLY YOUTHS.

"I have been suffering from nervous prostration ever since I heard the news." said a kindly faced landlady of 32 Allyn street, Mrs. McIntyre, who rented two rooms to the young men. "They were such nice young men, and they paid me a good price. They had a piano moved in and seemed like young gentlemen. I was never so surprised in my life when the four detectives came into the house and took the trunk out of the rooms. The men had occupied their rooms a good deal, but I remember now that on one or two occasions they had not come home at night."

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"I was a soldier in the Spanish-American War. After returning home I found that I was a perfect wreck. I was all run down, my blood was impure, and my nervous system in bad shape. I tried almost every medicine I could hear of, but none of them did me any good. I then tried Ayer's Sarsaparilla and began to improve at once. I want to recommend it to every sufferer from impure blood."-H. C. DOEHLER, Scranton, Pa.

"I had a terrible case of scrofula, and I kept trying all kinds of medicines, but they did me no good. One day I thought I would try Ayer's Family Medicines, so I bought two bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla and two boxes of Ayer's Pills. I took them according to directions, and in a week I was greatly improved. Before all the medicine was gone I was completely cured. I shall always recommend your medicines to others." - Chas. L. Locke, Stanford, Mont.

"Ayer's Sarsaparilla made the greatest cure for me ever accomplished by any medicine in the world. As a result of a long sickness in the army I had fever-sores, varicose veins, and ulcers of the worst kind. I was on crutches a great deal of the time from 1862 to 1901. Then I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and I am happy to say that my limb is entirely cured. I can go without crutches and can walk without a limp."—David C. Holt, West Haven, Conn.

Cured these people

"I suffered untold misery for many years from indigestion. I then began to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla and I soon felt its good results. I only had to use four bottles, and I tell you it was money well spent. Words cannot express to you the gratitude I feel for this great cure. I must say that no one need suffer with indigestion if they can buy Ayer's Sarsaparilla."-Mrs. F. R. HART, Mt. Kisco, N. Y.

"I owe my life to Ayer's Sarsaparilla and Ayer's Pills. They are the wonders of the world. I was in a terribly nervous condition, so that I could not bear the slightest noise, but immediately after beginning the use of these medicines I noticed an improvement, and soon was entirely well. I have also gained to pounds in weight from its use." - MRS. DELIA McWELL, Newark, N. J.

"I am anxious to let every one know what Ayer's Sarsaparilla has done for me. I am a great sufferer from sciatic rheumatism, but whenever a fresh attack comes on I take the Sarsaparilla and am soon over it. I keep it in the house all the time, for I cannot get any ease from any other medicine. How can I tell you the true worth of this medicine?"-MRS. CHAUNCEY TYLER, Randallsville, N. Y. It remains for Indiana to show New York what to do in the way of growing green grapes on gray muslin. Each grape is in reality a round, flat button, covered with green silk, and the effect is greatly heightened by green velvet leaves appliqued wherever the bunches of grapes can be persuaded to make room for them.

It would seem that in the Southwest the full, long bust is not in vogue. One yellow chiffon gown is ambitious in its trailing, beruffled skirt, but the expression of the figure is consumptive. figure is consumptive.

A curious group of gowns are some made early in the Nineteenth Century and loaned by Mrs. Johnson. Among them is a maternity gown, the front of a quaint, curious cut.

The European gowns brought over by Miss White are on exhibition.

Topeks, Kas. March 4.—R. P. Hobson, formerly of the United States Navy, addressed the members of the Kansas Legislature to-day. He said his mission is to educate the people of this country that they are the greatest people in the world. It was the great disappointment of his life, said Hobson, that he was obliged to leave the navy.

Three days later Joseph Kennedy was arrested. Then it was noticed that there was a resemblance between Mack and Kennedy. Mack's lawyers, hearing of the resemblance, had Kennedy and Mack both brought into court, and they occupied seats side by side. The women admitted that they had made mistakes in their identification of Mack and declared Kennedy was the man.

They offered all manner of apologies to Mack, but he was not satisfied and has instructed his attorney to bring civil suits for damages to pay him for his eleven days in jail.

are working as hard on the case to-day as they did the first day after the tragedy was discovered.

"We think we could make an arrest now in safety," said Superintendent Bull to-day, "but we prefer to wait, as we believe that certain evidence which we wish to gather, will lead to successful results."

One of the new facts developed from this source brings into the case another mysterious carriage, which was halted in Ashland avenue, north of the block in which is situated the Burdick home, late on the night of the murder.

The woman seen by Patrolman Meyers on the night of the murder was walking toward the corner where the carriage was standing. Diligent inquiry by the detective force has falled to reveal any one in the night of the murder.

It was admitted by Chief Cusack to-day that two houses in the Elmwood section were searched by the police last Sunday.

They were the homes of Arthur R. Pennall, co-respondent in Burdick's divorce suit, and of Mrs. Seth T. Payne.

Mrs. Payne's picture was found in Burdick's den on the day after the murder. Chief Cusack stated, however, that nothing was found in either house of impertance or significance in the Burdick investigation.
